

How to Write the Perfect AI Prompt

A 5-part colour-coded framework

COLOUR KEY

-  Role / Persona → WHO is speaking?
-  Task / Goal → WHAT should it do?
-  Context → WHY / background info
-  Format → HOW to structure output
-  Constraints → Rules & limits to follow

"The quality of your output is determined by the quality of your input."

The 5-Part Prompt Framework

Every great prompt contains these building blocks

1 ROLE / PERSONA

Tell the AI who it should be.

- "You are an expert data scientist..."
- "Act as a senior copywriter..."
- "You are a friendly teacher..."

2 TASK / GOAL

State clearly what you want.

- Use an action verb: write, analyse, summarise...
- One primary task per prompt
- Be specific — avoid vague requests

3 CONTEXT

Give the AI the background it needs.

- Who is the audience?
- What problem are you solving?
- Any relevant background data

4 FORMAT

Define how the output should look.

- "Return a numbered list"
- "Use markdown headers"
- "Keep it under 200 words"

5 CONSTRAINTS

Set the rules and limits.

- Tone: formal / casual / neutral
- Language: English / Arabic
- "Do not include code examples"

Prompt Anatomy — Colour Annotated

See how each colour maps to a real prompt

EXAMPLE PROMPT:

You are an expert marketing copywriter

specialised in SaaS products.

Write a compelling LinkedIn post about our new AI chatbot feature that reduces customer-support tickets by 40%.

Format it as: hook → value → CTA.

Keep it under 150 words. Use casual, professional English. No hashtags.

COLOUR KEY:

Role / Persona

Task / Goal

Context

Format

Constraints

PRO TIPS

- ♦ Start every prompt by establishing the Role — it sets the AI's entire mindset.
- ♦ If the output is wrong, the fix is usually missing Context.
- ♦ Constraints prevent the AI from going off-track.
- ♦ Separate long prompts with line breaks for clarity.

5 Common Prompt Mistakes

... and how the colour framework fixes each one

Missing: Vague task

✗ BAD: "Help me with marketing."

✓ GOOD: "Write a 200-word Instagram caption for a fitness app targeting women 25-35."

Missing: No role set

✗ BAD: "Explain blockchain."

✓ GOOD: "You are a university lecturer. Explain blockchain to a first-year student."

Missing: Missing context

✗ BAD: "Improve this email."

✓ GOOD: "Improve this email. It is a cold-outreach to a CTO. Tone should be concise and direct."

Missing: Unspecified format

✗ BAD: "List the pros and cons."

✓ GOOD: "List 5 pros and 5 cons as a markdown table with headers: Aspect | Pro | Con."

Missing: No constraints

✗ BAD: "Write a product description."

✓ GOOD: "Write a 100-word product description in Arabic. No technical jargon. Positive tone only."

Quick-Reference Cheat Sheet

Pin this — your one-page prompt writing guide

UNIVERSAL PROMPT TEMPLATE:

- You are [ROLE/PERSONA].
- Your task is to [ACTION VERB + SPECIFIC TASK].
- Background: [CONTEXT / AUDIENCE / PURPOSE].
- Format the output as [STRUCTURE / LENGTH / STYLE].
- Constraints: [RULES, LANGUAGE, TONE, LIMITS].

POWER TIPS

Be Specific

Vague in = vague out. Precision wins.

One Task

Don't cram 3 tasks in one prompt.

Iterate

Refine your prompt based on output.

Use Examples

"Return output like this example: ..."

Chain Prompts

Break big tasks into a sequence.

Remember: Great prompts = Great results ♦ Colour-code your prompt before sending it!